THE CANNING FACTORY.

Enthusiastic Meeting of the Board of Trade Last Night.

Unanimous Sentiment That Clarksville Must and Will Have It—Another Meeting Monday Night.

The Board of Trade meeting last night was larger than was to have been expected, considering that it was Thanksgiving Day and that several revival meetings were in progress in the city. The meeting developed a very inspiring, enterprising sentiment, and the object for which it was called seemed to grow on every one present from the beginning, and after nearly three hours discussion, every one left enthused with a scheme which our people have never thought of or given any consideration before. The meeting first assumed a social feature, men gathered around the board and discussed the general situation, the change that has come over the country since the election, the clearly outlined and bright prospects of the South and southern industry and development, which have taken the place of depression and despondency. The restoration and confidence are seen and felt everywhere in this broad land. It means a revival in the iron business and the transfer of that industry to the South. It means cotton mills, woolen mills, tobacco factories and other industries for the South. It means development in everything, more horses, more cattle, more hogs and more sheep, and a revival in the wool-growing industry. It means two coats instead of one, for every man, all wool and a yard wide.

After a general discussion on this line, President Howell called the board to order, and Mr. Storrs presented the proposition for the canning factory, explaining all of the details in operating such an enterprise and the effect upon the people, industry and the trade of the town, the good that was to be accomplished by the employment of 200 or 300 women and children and the development of the agricultural industry in the surrounding country. He explained the character and completeness of the machinery and its capacity for enlarging the factory to 20,000 cans per day. He described the effect that this industry has had on other localities, and told how many factories his company had established in the West on this plan since moving their works from California to Missouri.

President Howell, Capt. Crisman, Dr. Thomas and others, piled him with many questions concerning the industry, its development, market for products, factories in operation, cost of building, operating factories, successes, etc., all of which he answered frankly and satisfactorily, and the more questions they asked the more clearly was the practicability of the scheme presented.

Mr. H. H. Clark and others sent in their excuses why they could not attend, expressing favor with the movement. Capt. Gracey said he could not attend, but was ready to take some stock. He thought it would develop new and wonderful industry. He said there would be no trouble about getting plenty of stuff to run the factory. All we had to do was to issue circulars, letting the farmers know they would have a market for such stuff, and they would jump at such a chance.

It was just a splendid, live, enthusiastic meeting—a regular business love feast—and lacked only the tin horns, fire-crackers and numbers in overtopping the great Democratic rally.

It was decided to take no action until the people generally came to understand the enterprise better, and the board adjourned to meet Monday night at the Tobacco Exchange, and it is hoped that every man in town who has not been knocked entirely out of joint by the November cyclone will be there.

Farmers come fifteen miles to my store to get Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Many of them, like myself, are never without it in their homes. I cured my boy of a very severe attack of croup, and I believe saved his life. K. Dalton, Luray, Russell county, Kansas. This is a certain cure for croup, and if used as soon as the first symptoms appear, will prevent the attack. For sale by Owen & Moore, Druggists.

THE FAR NORTHWEST.

A Nashville Boy Elected Attorney General at Port Townsend, Wash.

From Port Townsend, Wash., papers of a recent date, says the American, we see that Robert W. Jennings, Jr., son of Prof. R. W. Jennings, of this city, has been elected Attorney General of the Port Townsend District, after an exciting canvass with his Republican opponent.

The canvass ended in a joint discussion between young Jennings and his Republican opponent at the opera-house in Port Townsend before a large audience. Mr. Jennings' speech occupies more than six columns in the Daily Call. His opponent was not able to reply to the strong array of facts and figures presented, went off on a bloody shirt tirade, seeking to create a prejudice against Jennings on account of his being from the South. In reply to this Jennings turned upon him and said: "Yes, sir, I am from Tennessee, and every foot of her soil is dear to my heart; I love her mountains and her dales, I love her woodlands and her meadows, her rushing rivers and her rippling brooks; I love every leaf upon the trees of her many colored forests; I love her lark, and linnet, and thrush, and golden-throated songster that pipes its morning lay to the rising sun; I love all the daisies on her thousand hills; I love her sunny skies and her starry heavens, and even here, 3,000 miles away, upon the western coast of America, on the shores of Puget Sound, looking out across the broad Pacific to the gateways of the day, I fancy that sometime upon my cheek I can feel the soft, warm breath of her perfect June days, and I seem to be once more

"Among the fields of yellow corn, Where the bloom is on the rye."
"I love it all, and if you, sir, think I would deny, my birthright, to get this office, for once you mistake your man. I would not do it for the office of Prosecuting Attorney for this or any other county, though it were offered to me upon a gold platter set with diamonds."

Illinois, Kentucky.
From Danville, Ill., Mrs. H. J. Nabors writes: I have been using your remedies for scrofula and am greatly benefited. My back was almost one solid sore. Two boxes of Dr. Hale's Household Ointment healed it entirely.

From Olive Hill, Ky., Mrs. M. J. Matney writes: May 13, '92. "My daughter has been afflicted with erysipelas in her eyes from infancy. She is now past 12 years old and one 25c. box cured her." It costs no more to get the best. This is the best ointment in the world for general use. Get a box at Clarksville Drug Co., Edwin Thomas, Jr., Manager.

The Military Band at Nashville.

Prior to the arrival of the Clarksville Military Band at Nashville Wednesday morning arrangements had been made whereby Eichorn's Band, of Louisville, would lead the great procession. The Clarksville Band marched into Nashville discussing splendid music and presenting an excellent appearance, with which the promoters of the Democratic rally became so favorably impressed that it brought about a change in the line of march, resulting in the Clarksville Military Band being placed in the lead over Eichorn's Band and the great Warren Band, of Evansville.

Pronounced Hopeless, Yet Saved.
From a letter written by Mrs. Ada Hurd, of Groton, S. D., we quote: "Was taken with a bad cold, which settled on my lungs, cough set in and finally terminated in consumption. Four doctors gave me up, saying I could not live but a short time. I gave myself up to my Savior, determined if I could not stay with my friends on earth, I would meet my absent ones above. My husband was advised to get Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. I gave it a trial, took in all eight bottles; it cured me, and thank God I am now a well and hearty woman." Do you wish to know the quickest way to cure a cold? We will tell you. To cure a cold quickly, it must be treated before the cold has become settled in the system. The first symptoms are a dry, loud cough, and sneezing. The cough is soon followed by watery expectoration, and the sneezing by a profuse watery discharge from the nose. In severe cases there is a thin white coating on the tongue. What to do: It is only necessary to take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in double doses every hour. That will greatly lessen the severity of the cold and in many cases will effectually counteract it, and cure what would have been a severe cold within one or two days' time. Try it and be convinced. 50 cent bottles for sale by Owen & Moore, druggists.

DR. ALBERT SHAW.

The Brilliant Young Editor of The Review of Reviews.

(Special Correspondence.)
NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—Dr. Albert Shaw, who has scored such a brilliant success as editor of The Review of Reviews, was born in Butler county, O., July 23, 1857. He was graduated from Loom college, Grinnell, Ia., in 1879. Soon after leaving college he entered local journalism in Iowa for the purpose of learning the mechanical and business branches.

His strongest tastes being for political and economic sciences, he took long leaves from his newspaper work to go to Johns Hopkins university for post graduate study in history and political science. In 1888 he did editorial writing on the Minneapolis Daily Tribune, and returned to Johns Hopkins to complete his course there and received in 1884 the degree of Ph. D., having accomplished work of a high order in constitutional history, international law and political economy.

He returned to Minneapolis as chief of the editorial staff of The Tribune, holding that position until the close of 1890—with the interval of over a year spent in Europe. In the meantime he had earned a distinguished reputation by his contributions to The Contemporary Review and Fortnightly Review in England, treating of various phases of western constitutional and legislative experience.

His stay in Europe in 1888 and 1889 was spent in the study of municipal government in Great Britain and in the large cities of the continent, and in study of European constitutional systems and general political conditions. When he returned he resumed editorial charge of the Minneapolis Tribune and gave lectures at Johns Hopkins, Cornell and Michigan universities upon municipal government in Europe. He also wrote, by invitation from The Century, a number of articles on the government of the principal cities of Europe, which are to be published in book form.

The Chautauque Magazine printed a series of interesting and instructive articles from his pen on the political and social conditions of the Servians, Turks, Bulgarians, Greeks and other nations—the result of his travels and researches. During his residence in Minneapolis he wrote a monograph called "Co-operation in a Western City"—afterward enlarged and reprinted as a part of the "History of Co-operation in the United States," which excited admiring attention both at home and abroad. His thesis in 1884 at Johns Hopkins was entitled "Icarian: A Study of Communitarian History," afterward translated and published in Germany.

In the year 1888 he edited a volume entitled "The National Revenues," to which a large number of leading economists contributed.

He still holds lectureships at Johns Hopkins and the Wisconsin State university's school of historical and political science, and frequently lectures on his favorite topics in other institutions. He contributes to leading periodicals and does a large amount of work every month for his own magazine. Mr. Shaw is unmarried, and seems wedded to his aspirations and work for reform and progress.

GEO. W. AVANT

Must Again Answer at the Bar for Alleged Murder.

An Interesting Session of the Criminal Court Commences Monday Morning—Five Murder Cases.

Criminal court for Montgomery county, Judge Tyler presiding, will convene at the court-house Monday morning, and it will be one of the most interesting sittings this court has had for several years. There are some five or six murder cases on the docket and scores of others of less importance.

The first and most interesting murder case on the calendar is the Avant case, now well known to the people of the county. George Avant is charged with poisoning his wife, something over two years ago, in the Fourth district of the county. The charge attracted much attention at the time it was made on account of the prominence of the family in that locality. It will be remembered that Mrs. Avant died rather suddenly one morning, and under peculiar circumstances. The remains were interred in Kentucky. A day or two after the interment the friends of the lady brought a charge of murder against the husband and had him jailed. The remains were disinterred and the stomach was analyzed by a Nashville chemist. The analysis revealed traces of mineral poisoning. The first trial resulted in the conviction of Avant with mitigating circumstances. Judge Tyler sentenced him to the penitentiary for life, and the case was appealed to the Supreme court. The decision of the lower court was thrown aside and the case was ordered back for a new hearing.

This is the condition of the case now, and it will be called the first thing after court convenes Monday morning. The witnesses have all been summoned and the only thing now which looks like a delay in getting the case to trial is the selection of the jury. This may be troublesome, and then it may be easily done. There are very few people in the county who have not formed or expressed some opinion as to the guilt or innocence of the accused from hearing portions of the evidence or from reading newspaper accounts. The custom in this particular will hardly be followed as closely as in common cases, however. There are hundreds of men in the county who have expressed their opinion on the case and who yet could give the prisoner justice at the bar. Right here seems to be a defect in the jury system. It makes no difference to a fair intelligent man whether he has expressed an opinion or not. He could hear the evidence in a case of this kind, and give the accused justice as well as if he had never heard of the case. Judge Tyler remarked in the presence of a reporter this morning that he thought it would be a better plan to have the jurors appointed for the year and let this jury try all cases. There would be no need to challenge a juror then unless he was related to some of the parties involved in the suit, or had some other personal connection with it.

However this all may be, Geo. W. Avant must again appear before the bar and be tried for his life. This announcement will bring to the minds of the court the long and tiresome ordeal through which the prisoner passed during the other trial which lasted over a week. Through all his long confinement, and his court experience, the prisoner has kept his health, and to-day he is reported as being in excellent health and spirits. The chief counsel for the defense will be W. A. Quarles, of this city, and Jas. M. Quarles, of Nashville, who are criminal lawyers of well known ability. They will be opposed by Leech & Savage and R. H. Burney, who assisted Attorney General Pitt in the other trial. Several of the younger members of the bar will make speeches on either side of the case and altogether the trial will be an interesting one.
